

M.A Hsc -405 Community health & care (optional paper of dissertation)

Objectives:

to enable students to

1. Understand the concept and significance of community health.
2. Know program for promotion of community health .

Unit 1:

- Concept of health.
- Meaning and significance of public health.
- Community health and community health promotion.
- community health education.
- Primary health care of the community.
- Determenants of health status.
- Indicators of health.

Unit 2:

- Environmental factors related to community health , water sewage disposal , food , insects and rodents , pesticides , pollution , bad sanitary condition.
- Communicable disease control .
- Prevention of major communicable disease.

Unit 3:

- Training of health workers .
- Role and function of health workers.
- The need for training health workers , keeping records , growth monitoring , help to health workers to indentify disease.
- Activities of public health department.
- Role of primary health center.
- Planning and execution of health programme.

Unit 4:

- Maternal health .
- Infant and child health.
- Priorities for women and children.
- Promoting infant and child health.
- Community health programmes for childrens.
- Common health problems in india.
- Sexually transmitted disease.

References:

- 1.National family health survey I & II (1993 , 2000) international institute of population studies. mumbai
- 2.World health organization (1998) ,world health report; life in the 21st century . report of the director , general , WHO, geneva , Switzerland.
- 3.Bhave v.m and others , you and your health .new d elhi , national book trust of india (1978) gujrati.
- 4.Davies B.M community health preventive medicine and social service , London , beinlliere , tindal 1979.
- 5.Since core j .health , a quality of life macmillan 1974